

Waterways Postgraduate Student Conference 2018

Sponsorship Opportunities

The Waterways Postgraduate Student Conference, to be held November 20, 2018, showcases research of the Waterways Centre for Freshwater Management's Masters and Doctoral students. Organised and presented by the students of the Centre, the day includes both paper and poster presentations. Over the last four years attendance on the day has grown steadily; attendees come from academia, Crown Research Institutes, industry and NGO's.

Attendance is free thanks to our generous sponsors, who also provide the prizes for oral and poster presentations. We offer several levels of sponsorship, and welcome in-kind donations of products/items. We will recognise your sponsorship in the following ways, matched to your selected sponsorship level.

The Waterways Centre is a joint initiative between the University of Canterbury and Lincoln University, focussed on improving knowledge-driven management of freshwater resources in Canterbury. This Conference is a showcase for the variety of research conducted by students supervised by academics of the Centre's Joint Working Group, including freshwater policy and management, engineering, social perspectives through to land-use practices and monitoring techniques.
